

The Conqueror's Pledge.

I do not choose to be ordinary, it is my right to be extraordinary.

I seek opportunities to develop whatever natural talents are borne in me.

I will not be a kept citizen, broken and dulled by having the system look after me.

I take calculated risks, dream big and am determined to build a life I will be proud of.

I know I may fall sometimes, but I know too, this is part of my growth as a conqueror.

I refuse security for its own sake, I prefer the challenges of life to guaranteed existence; the thrill of fulfilment to the staleness of utopia.

I will discipline my mind, body & spirit; through continuous learning, good food and exercise.

I will never cower before anyone nor bend to any threat.

I will help those who too wish to improve their lives; I will not squander time with those who don't.

I will maintain discipline at all costs to stay on the path to freedom.

It is my right as a human being to stand tall, proud and unafraid; to think and act myself, enjoy the benefits of my creations and face the world whilst boldly saying ...

'I came, I saw, I conquered.'

This is what it means to be the conqueror of my life.

Become a conqueror today.
